"Out of all the speakers at the conference, I can honestly and humbly say I found that your presentation had a "soul." I found that your style appreciates "femininity" or "womenity" and goes beyond superficial success. Rather we need to become successful women by being leaders in all aspects of our lives. You exemplified that balance in your life and your presentation, it was refreshing.

I don't find many "role models" out there but you seem to have joy in your life and a worthwhile path... Your "look into others' souls..." resonated with me. I want to find that kind of success, the one that makes a profound and transcending difference in others."
